"21,900"

Sixty years! It seems impossible but in a short while my days on the face of this earth will have numbered 21,900. Where has it all gone? It seems like yesterday I was arguing with my dad about the clothes I didn't want to wear to school and hiding the peas I didn't want to eat in a napkin when my mom wasn't looking.

I am beginning to understand what the Psalmist meant when he wrote, "As for man, his days are like grass, he flourishes like a flower of the field; the wind blows over it and it is gone, and its place remembers it no more."

What have I done with those 21,900 days? Have I lived well? Have I grown? Have I contributed? Have I thought deeply? Have I listened? Have I cared? Have I been trustworthy? Have I worshipped? Have I loved?

My days have been flying by and one distant day they will abruptly end. When that happens, I will come face to face with the next portion of the Psalm quoted above, "But from everlasting to everlasting the Lord's love is with those who fear him..."

"What a day that will be, when my Jesus I shall see. When I look upon his face, the one who saved me by his grace. When he takes me by the hand and leads me through the promised land. What a day, glorious day that will be!"

21,900 and counting. Do we keep counting once eternity rolls?
